

The Status of Scientists

So many scientists have been silenced, injured, banished or exiled from their place of birth, imprisoned, tortured, and even killed, because of their work and their contribution to the advancement of science for their nations and for humanity, by order of organisations and by authorisation of the so-called men of power or leaders of nations, religions or other groups, for political and/or financial gain. These inhumane attacks against scientists and the pain they cause them, their families and humanity, are heinous acts that shall never be forgotten.

The truth about the scientists' message to mankind will outlast these short-term peacock pretenders and so-called leaders of insignificant power, and in time their criminal acts against scientists will bring shame on these leaders of dust of the Earth.

These crimes against scientists are the most heinous crimes committed by these men of power and their servants in all levels of creation and these relentless attacks on them are considered equal to if not worse than the killing of religious prophets of the past and the future.

What will be the future for the souls of these so-called leaders supported by so-called governments, religious, financial or scientific organizations and their misguided servants who carry out their master's orders?

As the scientists flock together like doves and as the present leaders of the world hunt together like vultures, then the fate of men of greed and leaders of one sort or another and their cronies who commit crimes against scientists has been and will surely be banishment to the lowest corners of the universe, where the souls of these peasants acting like so-called leaders will reside for eternity.

The same shall be true of their progeny and all their souls shall be condemned to the darkest parts of the universe, where they will never progress and never be enlightened by anyone. The souls of these leaders and of their offspring, who are the material beneficiaries of the deliberately misguided actions of their forefathers, shall all stay forever at the level below the level of the soul of man for eternity, which is nothing but the lowest of the lowest in all realms of the world of creation.

Beware those who have committed and are considering committing such crimes to stop the progress of all lives in all the realms of creation through development and release of new science and intellect by the men of science, as scientists are nothing but the messengers of God for the development of the intellect, social structure and physical progress of man. The status of true scientists is equal in the sight of God to the status of prophets for the souls who come under the banner of religion.

Therefore crime against one messenger who is a scientist is and has been the same as crimes against the messengers of the soul or religious prophets of God.

Then no wonder that certain civilizations of this Earth over centuries have been in the doldrums of history as one nation or race has betrayed the messengers of the soul and another the messengers of knowledge. These messengers are equal in their status and mission for the progress of man's life in this and future realms, for the progress of man's physical body and soul on this Earth and in the universe.

By this act we put the status of scientific messengers on a par with the messengers of the soul and of religions of the past and the future, and from now on one shall not exist without the other as the prophets of the future. Both realms of knowledge have to be in harmony in one body and soul according to the present universal laws of coexistence, as the human race is to succeed in joining the universal community in the very near future and as man will be able to enjoy the harmony which has been established in universal communities with all the beauties of their creations in the universe.

M T Keshe

Iranian nuclear scientist

The founder of the Keshe Foundation